

SCROFULA

HEREDITARY BLOOD POISON

Scrofula is a disease manifested usually by a swelling and ulceration of the glands, especially about the neck. It is almost entirely hereditary in its origin, being the dregs or remains of some specific blood poison. Where the blood is greatly weakened by the scrofulous poison, the disease attacks other portions of the system besides the glands, and then we see its effects in weak eyes, poorly developed bodies, running sores and ulcers, skin diseases, especially on the scalp, catarrhal troubles, etc. Scrofula usually makes its appearance in childhood, though manhood or womanhood may be reached before the poison progresses to the stage of outward manifestation. S. S. S. is the one real cure for scrofula. It is a blood purifier without an equal, and it cures this destructive blood poison by removing every trace of the infection from the circulation. S. S. S., in addition to cleansing and purifying the blood, assists the stomach and digestive members in the creation of new blood corpuscles and other nourishing matter for the circulation. S. S. S. increases the resistive powers of the system and by strengthening and building up the vitality, allows nature to make a perfect and lasting cure. Book describing the disease and any medical advice sent free to all who write.

FILES SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. Leona W. Blake, the wife of Joseph Blake, yesterday filed a suit in the district court for divorce. The petitioner asserts that she married Blake in Grand Junction on Nov. 2, 1905, and that for the past two years he has failed utterly to provide for her. She asks besides the divorce permission to again use her maiden name of Kendall, and such general relief as the court may see fit to award.

RICHFIELD FARMER DIES FROM ACUTE PERITONITIS

Salt Lake, Sept. 23.—Within two hours after entering the L. D. S. hospital Thursday night, Fred Lee, a farmer of Elsinore, 45 years of age, died of peritonitis. Dr. George W. Middleton saw that Lee was gravely ill when he entered the hospital, and a hasty examination showed that Lee was too far gone to withstand a surgical operation, which a day or two ago might have saved his life. Peritonitis in its worst form had followed the bursting of internal organs. The decedent had a family at Elsinore, where he owned a farm, and was also interested in mines.

SCHOOLS SETTLE DOWN TO WORK

The schools of Ogden are now well under way. The teachers and pupils alike are settled down to their regular routine of work and everything looks favorable for a good and successful year. Everything from the kindergarten to the high school has started with a bang.

Manual training for the boys and sewing for the girls have been put into operation in the sub-high school. This is the first step in the grades toward practical education in the industrial arts in the city.

Five hundred dollars has been expended by the board of education for carpenter tools, and the utilitarian side of the child's nature will be developed along with the intellectual and aesthetic.

Superintendent Mills is proud of the work done by the sub-high school. It is a well known fact that there is at least one or more subjects that a teacher will dislike very much. A teacher cannot do his most successful work in a subject that he dislikes. The sub-high school allows each teacher to specialize in one or two subjects and eliminate from his responsibilities the subjects that he dislikes as well as those to which he is indifferent.

"St. Elmo" Augusta Evans' famous story, as played by the Colonial Players last evening at the Ogden theater, making probably the biggest hit of the five plays already given by this company.

The play develops considerably from the lines of the book, introducing new situations and omitting others, but the story is there, and is probably as good as could be staged from the original novel.

"St. Elmo" seemed to be just what the theatergoers had wanted. The house was the largest yet during this engagement, and the rapt attention given the players and the generous applause was very flattering to the actors indeed.

The piece is, or should be, well known to book lovers. The strong story of broken confidence in manhood, the awful life led by the disappointed man and the final redemption of him and his soul in the love of the pure and lovely Edna Earl is one that leaves an indelible impression upon one reading the book or seeing it played.

The efforts of the Colonial Players, individually and collectively, were very gratifying. Each member of the cast appeared to be fit properly in their roles, and the action of the story ran as smoothly and as strongly as ever intended.

Mr. E. Forrest Taylor as St. Elmo, and Miss Ada Daniels as Edna Earl, both acted their parts to perfection. Mr. Taylor seemed especially adapted to this sort of role, and carried his audience with him right up to the final curtain. His work as the "saturn" St. Elmo showed him in a part in which he has never been seen in Ogden. Heretofore he has played the kindly, loving and lovable heroic parts, but last night's character brought out just a little more of the young man's latent ability.

Miss Daniels played her usual part. Her work in the leads is growing upon the Ogden audiences so that she might attempt anything and make it.

Jack Christie as Allen Hammond, the aged clergyman, filled the part even better than we thought it could be filled. Mr. Christie has done some especially fine work since the opening of this repertoire engagement, but he showed to best advantage last night, possibly, than in any other role he has played.

Ralph Cloninger as Gordon Leigh was very good, as was the irrepressible Seldy Roach, who did the Vanderdecken Jiggins, the Colorado millionaire, and rapid-change question.

Miss Snyder as Agnes Hammond gave a pleasing portrayal of that role.

The support carried the plot through evenly, making this the most impressive story yet told by the Colonial Players.

REFRAIN FROM EATING DUCKS

By request of J. S. Carver, president of the State Dairy and Food bureau, the local officials of the Harrison lines will issue an order to all their employees to refrain from eating any ducks, snipes or mud hens until the ban on the fowls is lifted.

It is the practice of many railroad men to carry a gun with them on freight runs and to kill ducks during the open season. The birds are delivered to the crews in the cars of the train and eaten by the crew. It is in the interest of the health of the railroad men that the order is to be issued by the company officials.

The practice of eating ducks is said to be a common ailment along the route between Ogden and Monticello, as on this route the freights pass a number of places where the fowls are plentiful.

PRIMARIES BE HELD TOMORROW

The Republican primaries for the selection of delegates to both the county and state conventions will be held Saturday, Sept. 24.

The primaries were formerly scheduled for tonight, but were postponed on account of the opening of the Four-State Fair, the International Sheep Show and the holding of the monster automobile parade by the Good Roads association.

The places for the holding of the primaries have been printed before in the Standard. The apportionment of votes this year is one in every 90 ballots cast two years ago for Joseph Howell for congressman.

MONKEY STEALS OFFICER'S CLUB

Policeman Al Herriek, employed as a special officer at the Fair Grounds, yesterday was the victim of what might be termed a "monkey" shine.

The officer was standing near the cages in which Don Carlos keeps his trained dogs and monkeys, when all of a sudden he felt a tug at one leg of his trousers. Glancing down he saw a thin, hairy arm stretched through the bars, clutching tightly at the cloth and trying hard to drag the guardian of the peace into the cage.

Now the officer had never been in a wrestling match with a monkey, a trained one at that, and it was only natural that he should lose his presence of mind for the moment—which he did.

When he recovered his thoughts he was minus his night stick, and there between the bars of the wire cage he saw Mr. Monk's second in command.

Mr. Herriek tried hard to recover his weapon, he even showed his policeman's badge, and threatened to arrest the outfit, but it was no use. The owner of the animals had to be called before the officer could secure his stick.

Last night, it is said, Mr. Herriek swore out a warrant against the performing animals, charging them with monkeying with an officer of the law.

MANTI STATE DELEGATES.

Manti, Sept. 23.—Republican primaries held here tonight selected those delegates to the state convention: W. D. Livingston, L. R. Anderson, Louis Larson, P. P. Dyreng, W. B. Lowry, W. C. Snow.

The county delegation was instructed to work for the nomination of W. D. Livingston for state senator.

BACHELORS SEND LETTERS TO SINGER

Evidently there are a number of young men in Ogden who are desirous of leaving the life of bachelorhood for the sea of matrimony, and two of them have written very endearing letters to Josie Heather, who is singing at the Orpheum theater this week.

The young woman's principal song is one entitled "I Want a Husband," and it is this musical effort that has inspired the writing of the epistles.

Manager Goss of the theater has in his possession both of the letters, and offered them to a Standard reporter for publication.

"It isn't right," he said, "for Ogden bachelors to write such mushy notes to one of my actresses, especially one who is married."

Married and Has Daughter. It happens that "Miss" Heather is the wife of Mack Ford, who is this week playing in a Salt Lake play house and who comes to Ogden every evening after his performance and remains until the noon of the following day, returning to Salt Lake City in time for the matinee.

While "Miss" Heather appears like a 16-year-old girl on the stage, and claims that she is working at Wright's store, she has been married about five years and is the mother of a girl 3 years old, who is in Ogden with her.

Manager Goss says that he would like to have local bachelors refrain from any further note writing, as it annoys both Mrs. and Mr. Ford.

AUTO OWNERS TAKE NOTICE!

The committee having in charge the big automobile parade to be held this evening when the delegates to the Intermountain Good Roads convention will be ridden through the streets of the city, thence to the Fair Grounds, requests that every owner of an automobile be on hand at the City Hall at 7:15 tonight to participate.

If possible, come with a vacant seat or two, so that the delegates can be driven in automobiles as promised. There are 200 visitors here who have been invited to ride in this parade, and as yet the committee only has about 30 machines, so that it is necessary to again urge the co-operation of the auto owners in the handling of the parade.

MAN'S COLLAR BONE BROKEN

C. E. Warren had an accident yesterday that resulted in the breaking of his collar bone. He was driving on Thirty-third street near Lincoln avenue when he turned around to warn some mischievous boys to keep away from his wagon when his horse took fright and dashed into a telephone pole. Warren was hurled to the street, landing on his shoulder.

He walked to a physician's office, where he had the injury treated. The broken bone could not be set and placed in splint, but instead the arm and shoulder were bandaged tightly so that it would heal of its own accord.

The injury is not serious, but the young man will be forced to submit to the bandaging of his arm until the break mends.

VISITORS FILLING UP THE HOTELS

Ogden is filled up with visitors at least as far as the hotels and regular rooming houses are concerned.

At the Reed hotel guests are "dumpling up," two or three people occupying the same room, and the hallways have been filled with cots until the hotel takes on the appearance of a hospital ward.

Other hotels are filled, but the congestion is not so bad as at the Reed. All of the rooming houses are filled to their capacity, and guests now arriving are being sent to the furnished rooms in private houses that are entered on Dan Ensign's special list of available rooms.

This list has scores of names of householders who will accommodate some of the visitors, and it is believed that the 300 rooms offered by these persons will not be sufficient to house the great throng that is expected today and tomorrow.

Any one who yet has a vacant room or one that they could spare during the rush season should telephone to Mr. Ensign at the Arlington hotel, where the big list is kept.

Mr. Ensign and his clerks have split the total number of names up into equal divisions, and has sent a portion to each of the bigger hotels of the city, so that every hotel will have 50 or more outside rooms to refer their guests to.

HUSBAND AND WIFE KISS AND MAKE UP DISPUTES

Salt Lake, Sept. 23.—Susana and Ephraim Jeffs have agreed to kiss and make up. Last May Jeffs was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from Mrs. Jeffs on his cross-complaint on the grounds of cruelty and drunkenness, but Thursday, in District Judge Morse's court, by stipulation this decree was set aside and the case was dismissed.

The stipulation, signed by both, was to the effect that the two had amicably settled all differences between them and were desirous of resuming marital relations. This is the second time the two have adjusted their troubles, according to Jeffs.

In her complaint, Mrs. Jeffs charged Jeffs, an engineer for the Oregon Short Line, with non-support and cruelty. Jeffs beat her, she said, and she demanded a divorce and reasonable alimony and $100 attorney fees.

Jeffs came back with an answer in which he charged Mrs. Jeffs with cruelty, alleging that she beat him and pulled his hair, and declared that Mrs. Jeffs got drunk about four times a week and neglected her household. He got ready to institute a divorce suit some time before that, he said, but Mrs. Jeffs promised to be good, so the proceedings were never instituted. On his cross-complaint Jeffs got the divorce.

The couple were married here February 17, 1908. Jeffs is 56 years old and Mrs. Jeffs is a little younger.

NO DEFECT IN THE KENNETT PLANT

Baghouse in Copper Smelting Works Because the System is Correct.

The efforts of the various copper smelting organizations in California to overcome the objection made by the farming interests through the courts or the correction of alleged damage to the farm life by the escape of acid fumes, are being watched closely all over the country, especially in Utah where a like difficulty has been experienced with the farming interests. Eastern reports have it that the United States Smelting, Refining & Mining company at the Mammoth plant in Powell, was meeting with limited success in its new $500,000 copper baghouse system.

This report has it that the management is doing all right with two furnaces in operation, but it is doubtful if success will attend the operations with more furnaces than the first two.

A prominent official of the United States company was asked in regard to this, and he said:

"My attention has already been called to this report, and I have deemed it necessary to make an answer, for it is entirely incorrect in every way. The copper baghouse system of preventing the emission of fumes from smelters will work just as well with a hundred furnaces as it will with one. It is nothing more or less than a question of using more neutralizer and larger baghouse space. A small baghouse sufficient to take care of the fumes from one furnace only naturally could not be expected to take care of fifteen or twenty furnaces. And if a given number of pounds of neutralizer is necessary to treat a given number of cubic feet of gas, it stands without argument that the same amount cannot be handled by a smaller amount of gas. Just like anything else, it is a question of adequate equipment, not involving in this case a failure of methods."

The operation of the copper baghouse at the United States company is being followed with much interest in technical circles. The baghouse system is working like a charm in handling the fumes from the lead smelter of the same company at Midvale, Utah, and so far the copper system in California has been entirely satisfactory to the management and officials.

AUTO PARTY WRECKED; MACHINE TURNS TURTLE

American Fork, Sept. 23.—A party of young folks from this city, consisting of Harry Holden, Fred Crome, Agnes Brown and Florence Erbar, returning from Salt Lake City last night by automobile, had a narrow escape with their lives when, on short distance this side of Sandy, their car was turned turtle.

They went into the city yesterday afternoon in order to attend the show at the Orpheum and were returning home about midnight. This side of Sandy there was a place in the road where the rails had washed out near a bridge, and in trying not to miss the bridge the machine struck this hole and toppled completely over. Mr. Holden, who was driving the car, was rendered unconscious at the time, but he rallied in a short time and, outside of several bruises, was not seriously hurt. Mr. Crome escaped without a scratch, having jumped, or was thrown, entirely clear of the car. The girls did not fare so well. Miss Brown was caught under the machine and had her foot crushed, one toe being entirely cut off. Mrs. Erbar received a number of severe cuts and bruises, and although painful are not serious. They were brought home by another auto that was coming behind them. Mr. Holden was coming back today after the car, which is badly demolished.

ORE BODY IS NINETY FEET IN WIDTH

Scranton Company Has Just Crosscut Fine Body of Lead-Zinc Ore.

Some decidedly encouraging news is coming from the Scranton mine of the North Tintic section these days, and reports are being made there were to the effect that the lower tunnel workings have opened a body of ore which was crosscut for ninety feet. This new ore is one of the results of the determination of the company reached several months ago to give the property an extensive treatment of deep development, and there is a tonnage of ore now available that has never been exceeded in this old producer.

How extensive this new ore body is, outside of the crosscut effort, is not now known, and more than what is supposed to be the same resource from eighty to one hundred feet below the discovery level, and also at a distance of one hundred and fifty feet north along the strike, where the ore is fairly good. The ore carries lead and zinc values. Much of it will be shipped just as it is broken down, while much of it must of necessity pass through the hands of the sorters before it is ready for the market. To ore, owing to its high zinc values, must be shipped to the zinc market in the middle west, and the company in its history has paid a fortune in railroad rates.

Notwithstanding that many hundreds of feet have been driven by the management, there have been no limits found to the resources of this mine. Forty men are employed at present. The company is shipping at the rate of 500 to 1000 tons monthly.

The Scranton is one of the most unique propositions in Utah. In the first place it is an old fashioned organization, a close corporation, with a capitalization of only 30,000 shares of stock. Out of the 30,000 shares, close to 27,000 shares are held by the Scranton, Pa., people. The company has been a big money-maker, but its has at the same time been extremely liberal with its expenditures for equipment and development and no dividends have as yet been declared. The company owns 300 acres of patented ground. Theodore Wolff is president and Judge H. A. Knapp is vice president both of Scranton. William H. Bramel is secretary and N. A. Dunyan is managing director.
